

Why you should report SEXUAL HARASSMENT

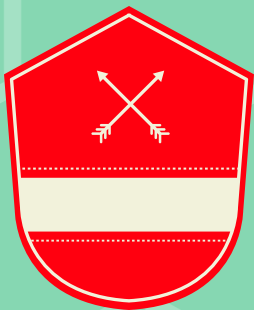

It won't stop unless you do

Sexual harassers don't stop unless someone makes them. If nobody takes action, they continue to harass, often escalating their behavior.

There are probably others

Sexual harassers are predators. They often move from one victim to the next, unless someone stops them. You might not be the first, but you can be the last.

The law is there to protect you

The law forbids retaliation against employees who report workplace sexual harassment. If you make a good faith report of harassment, your employer may not retaliate against you.

It's time to end workplace sexual harassment
